GLEN REED

COMMISSIONER
FEDERAL MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION SERVICE

Glen Reed graduated from the Coles School of Business in 1997, at Kennesaw State University with a BA degree in management, with concentrations in human resources and small business management.

Upon graduation his labor relations career began as an association executive with various chapters of the National Electrical Contractors Association, Sheet Metal and Air Conditioning Contractors Association and the Mechanical Contractors Association of America, with service in the states of Georgia, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Alabama. Glen's service in the construction and service skilled trades sector, by representing the member contractors of the associations, provided him with unique and balanced insight through duties such as chairing or assisting in collective bargaining, grievance handling, serving as a trustee of several health and welfare and defined benefit pension trusts, as well as a consultant on several apprenticeship training committees.

Glen joined the Federal Mediation & Conciliation Service on March 10, 2003, first servicing the Baton Rouge, LA field office for six years, then moved to the St. Louis, MO field office in 2009. As a Commissioner, Glen has worked with public (municipal, state, and education) sectors, federal sectors and private sectors within industries such as construction, health care, manufacturing, retail, transportation and utilities. Along with his work with various types of employers and corporations, his work with labor unions includes affiliates of, AFT, ATU, AFGE, AFSCME, CWA, IAMAW, IBEW, IBT, IFTPE, IOUE, LIUNA, NEA, OPEIU, SEIU, USW and UFCW (to name a few) as well as working with various Physicians, Police and First Responders Unions and Guilds.
